

Reflect

Brenda recounts a time when she felt God’s call on her life, and her response was to run. She tried anything she could to prove to God that she wasn’t the person for the job. If there has ever been a time in your life where you had this experience, what did this look like for you? What was God calling you to and how did you run? What was the outcome? Did you stop running and accept the call?

As Psalm 139 tells us, God created us—and knew us—since we were in our mother’s womb. If you are in a season filled with unknowns, how does this truth bring you comfort and/or reassurance?

Brenda talks about a time when she finally realized she was not inviting God into her problems. What is the problem in your life that you are fixated on? What might it look like to surrender your control and allow God to solve it how He wants to rather than how you want to?

Pray

God, thank You for thinking of me and for creating me in my mother’s womb. Thank You for not only knowing me but for also knowing what is best for me. God, please help me to have the eyes to see Your will for my life and to have a heart that can surrender my own will to You. Thank You for loving me, God. I pray that in every action I take and word that I speak, I would look more and more like you each day.

More to Explore

CAST YOUR CARES READING PLAN

Whether you’re praising God for His grace or wrestling with your faith, God will always meet you with His unchanging love, truth, and strength. Step into a community of women committed to growing closer to God and each other through trusting that He is and always will be enough.

GOD SEES HER READING PLAN

No matter where you are, God sees you, He knows you by name, and He cares about every detail of your life. Let these Our Daily Bread devotions, written by women like you, wash over your soul and remind you each day that you are never alone.

SCAN THE QR CODE TO START READING

