

Reflect

As Mandy points out, moms have a huge influence not only on their families but also on their overall community. What are some steps you can take to begin recognizing the position that God has put you in and the influence that you have for the kingdom?

The Hebrew language is complex and there are a lot of ways that words can be translated. Mandy's understanding of the Hebrew word for mother is similar to our understanding of glue . . . the idea that mothers hold everything together. Thankfully, we have one true God who holds us together. How can you rely on God a little bit better today in your role as a wife, mother, friend, and daughter?

How might you practically look to Him every day to remember who He says you are? Look to the Scripture passage above if you need help.

Who can you rely on in your community to talk honestly about your experience in motherhood?

Pray

Dear God, thank You for this life that You have given me. Though it might not always be easy to see it for myself, thank You for entrusting me to make Your love known more tangibly to those around me. Father, in the Scriptures you have said that nothing can separate me from Your love—please help me to remember this every day as I face trials of all kinds and even when my thoughts stray from the truth of who You say I am. Thank You for loving me, Father. Amen.

More to Explore

Sunday God Meets Monday Mom

Maybe you get fired up about God at church on Sunday only to feel like a flat balloon deflated by all the demands of motherhood that come your way on Monday. In only 5 minutes a day, bridge the gap between spiritual Sundays and hectic Mondays with themes, verses, and applications that help you connect your faith to your everyday life.

SCAN THE QR CODE TO START READING

